4th Floor Perspective

Start with the Avery Index!

The Architecture Library staff will offer 45-minute sessions focused on using the Avery Index to Architectural Periodicals.

Participants will gain an overview of Avery, learn effective search strategies and have opportunities to practice their skills in the library. Please bring your laptop or tablet to use during the session.

Each open session limited to 8 participants.

WHAT’S NEW FOR AUTUMN 2015?

- Our technology-rich study space is equipped with a wall monitor. Ask at the Information Desk to check out the HDMI cables and connect your laptop for large screen viewing. Wireless keyboard and mouse also available.

- Security cameras were installed and now provide continuous monitoring to ensure safety of our visitors while providing protection for our collections and facility.

- Extended loan periods for hundreds of books and journals that used to be “Library Use Only” or “Reference.”

- If you need to search the library catalog while on the Mezzanine, use the iPad stand near the Special Collections Room and save a trip downstairs.

100 Years: Landscape Architecture

The Architecture Library continues its celebration of 100 Years of Landscape Architecture with an exhibit featuring Theodate Pope Riddle. Theo was one of America’s first licensed female architects. She designed Hill-Stead house and its surrounding gardens.

She is a featured character in Dead Wake: The Last Crossing of the Lusitana by Erik Larson (author of Devil in the White City). The library’s display case is located near the Information Desk.

Reserve Reminders

Permanent and course reserve materials circulate for two hours. Items are located at the Information Desk and must be checked out with a photo ID.

Many of our reserves may be checked out overnight if they are picked up within two hours of closing and need to be returned within an hour of opening the following business day.

If you are an instructor and would like to place materials on reserve please contact Rachel Deavers or complete an online form at http://library.osu.edu/staff/electronic-reserves/course-materials-request.php.
